A Heartless Trick. On Thursday Jennie Schneider called at the Bureau of Vital Statistics, in New York city, to get a transcript of her marriage certificate. She said she was married on Sunday, June 5, but there was no record of any such event. Miss Schneider came from Riga, Russia, seven years ago. She gives her age astwenty-five years. She has worked as a servant. She had saved $125 by the first of the present month. On the morning of the day on which she claims to have been married she met Annie Sammt, a friend, who induced her to take a walk down town. In the course of their ramblings Jennie and Aunie called on Annie's brother, Adolph Sammt, who lives at No. 9 Avenue B. There Jennie was introduced to Adolph. Adolph asked her if she was not tired of being a servant. She said she was, and that she would like to get married. "I know just the man for you," Sammt replied. Then he went out and presently returned with a man whom he introduced as Adolph Bannet, a cutter in a large wholesale house on Broadway, who, he said, had an income of $25 a week. The men set about arranging for the marriage at once. An alleged rabbi was summoned. The knot was tied, and the bride was given a certificate in Hebrew, for which she paid the rabbi $5. Samut demanded $10 as a brokerage fee, which Jennie paid without a murmur. Then the groom asked his wife for money with which to buy furniture. She turned over to him $101. As Bannet was about to leave the room Sammt demanded the settlement of an alleged board bill, amounting to $50. Bannet paid it out of the $101. Then be told Mrs. Bannet that $51 was not enough to begin housekeeping on, and asked her for her rings, on which to raise money to se-cure a home. Jennie's four gold rings, valued at $25, followed her money. Ban-net failed to materialize the next day, and there was a great howl in the rooms on Avenue B. He turned up on Tuesday and told Mrs. B. that he had secured rooms at No. 49 Tillary street, Brooklyn. Accompanied by the Sammts, the pair proceeded to Tillary street. There Bannet sent Jen-nie out for some water, and while she was gone he cleared out the trunks and left. For a week Jennie hunted for her fugitive husband, and on Wednesday turned up at the Essex Market Police Court, where she cought a warrant for his arrest. She never discovered that she had been victimized un-til Thursday.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Southing Synur, for children teething, is the prescription of one of the best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and has been used for forty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. During the process of teething its value is incalculable. It relieves the child from pain, cures dysentery and diarrhea, griping in the bowels, and wind-colie. By giving health to the child it rests the mother. Price 25 cents a bottle.
